

Robert Kennedy's Final Day

June 4, 1968

1 —from Robert Francis Kennedy— a Poem

Edward Sanders

That day

John Lennon rerecorded the lead vocal for "Revolution"

lying flat on his back at the studio on Abbey Road

Sirhan awakened around 8
He had planned to go to the horse races at Hollywood Park

But he purchased a newspaper & had no taste for the horses running that day so opted to go target shooting

He drove to the East Pasadena Firearms Co.
& purchased some boxes of Federal long rifle .22s

Then had coffee at a Denny's & on to the San Gabriel Valley Gun Range on Fish Canyon Rd
in Duarte, outside LA

He arrived about 11:30, signing in staying till just before closing at 5 during which time he fired off something like 300 to 400 rounds

When he left, he had loaded his .22 with bullets called Mini-Mags

—Shane O'Sullivan, Who Killed Bobby?, pp. 214-217

A woman named Claudia Williams and her husband came target shooting

They claimed to have arrived around 4 p.m.

Hubbie shot a rifle Claudia, attractive, and worked at a topless bar asked Sirhan to help her fire her pistol

He complied.

According to the shooting range's "range master" Everett Buckner (who told the same story on two occasions to the FBI, June 8 & 12, '68)

Buckner said that not long after Sirhan had signed into the range

a couple entered, it was circa 10:00 to 10:30 a.m.

The man began firing the rifle on the rifle range & the woman, young blonde & good-looking, was having trouble firing her .22

Buckner stated to the FBI that when Sirhan offered to help the woman she exclaimed, "God damn you, you son of a bitch, get out of here or they'll recognize us."

Buckner stated that Sirhan did not depart, but continued to assist her (LAPD later claimed Buckner failed a polygraph test.

After the test, Buckner stated

"I think it's true. I think she said it.
I still think she said it.") on the Conspiracy and Cover-Up*

That same day Soviet tanks and troops shoved inward into Czechoslovakia

ostensibly for maneuvers

The Malibu Surf

The ocean at Malibu churned in the fog the morning of the win where Robert and Ethel lay sleeping in a house overlooking the ceaseless peace of the beach.

A brief night striving to restore his vim in the tiredness of nearly nonstop plane rides, motorcades, rallies, speeches, chatting with the press, phone calls, staff meetings, & other body-bashing stresses in an "On the Eve" set of hours before the sea-like pressure of Time bore him forward to further contests for delegates such as the New York primary two weeks ahead & a convention in Chicago.

The struggle for delegates was still a triangulation of McCarthy was not about to drop out especially with his strength among New York's antiwar activists

It was a strange equation: the big city bosses and state chairs clutched many a delegate to their chests

Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, for instance had a batch of clout

& RFK, after California was going to have to convince Mr. Daley, & others that Humphrey was not the anointed

Goofing in the Tiredness

The Frankenheimers had given Ethel and Robert their own bedroom where they could rest for a few hours

RFK at 42
had the wiriness of a coiled spring & the stamina of a star athlete in service of the Polis They said he slept only four hours a night but the weeks non-stop had sapped him

You know how it is You boing awake mind pulsing with stuff to do calls to make, issues to jot & plans to polish plus eating at the crow of his psyche the death of his brother and vengeance on those who had done it

Ethel was pregnant with their 11th child She too had bundles of energy which she brought to the campaign with friend-rousing grace

Oceanus lay churning just feet from his window gray, grim, glimmering and glorious!

It was cold to swim at Malibu in the skin-chilling surf and a ten mile wind at John and Evans' portion of beach

First RFK, Ethel and six of their ten children had lunch

Ethel was pregnant with their eleventh child, Rory (who'd be born in December)

Joining them was Theodore White in the midst of his research for a book on the '68 race

5

Then RFK in trunks went with 12 yr old David and 3 yr Max to the water's edge where he helped build a sand castle

He spotted David being pulled down by an undertow and dashed into the churn to save him father and son

both a bit bruised from the saving.

After swimming in the ocean there was more fun in the Frankenheimers' pool

RFK's flashy pink & green Hawaiian trunks were in the bedroom lavatory sink where they remained till after the shooting some aides early in the a.m.

arrived to retrieve his personal items

A Brief Political Chat

Edward Kennedy, Richard Goodwin and Fred Dutton arrived & there was a bit of political talk then the candidate took a nap.

Richard Goodwin was getting some food from a buffet when he noticed RFK spread out across two chairs by the pool getting a restless shuteye

That same day in London, at the studio on Abbey Road John Lennon rerecorded the lead vocal

Also the same day Soviet tanks and troops shoved inward into Czechoslovakia

and then the same afternoon, as we have noted, a universe away Sirhan Sirhan went target practicing

(just as hours later he was spotted standing in the hotel kitchen on a serving table with a “pretty young woman”) quick-firing 300 to 400 rounds with a .22 at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club

in Duarte, outside L.A.

Just after 3 PM

For that afternoon John Frankenheimer had arrayed a row of television sets in the house to watch how the election was evolving

At Malibu they learned the first exit polls.
CBS had taken “spot checks” of 200 sample precincts around noon and close to 3 p.m. phoned the results to press secretary Frank Mankiewicz

49 % for Kennedy less for McCarthy

A couple of close RFK aides bought themselves bright-hued hippie attire to wear to the victory party that night at a discotheque called The Factory owned by Pierre Salinger & other well-known Democrats (such as Sammy Davis, Jr.)

Speechwriter Richard Goodwin Recalls June 4

“After breakfast, Bobby called to say he was spending the day at John Frankenheimers’

"The living room of the Frankenheimer house and the adjoining dining room were divided by a glass wall from a swimming pool and a broad patio. Beyond was the gentle-surfed beach. Ethel Kennedy was seated, talking with Teddy White and Mrs. Frankenheimer, but the candidate was not there. Going into the next room for the buffet lunch, I turned casually toward the pool.

"Robert Kennedy was stretched out across two chairs in the sunlight, his head hanging limply over the chair frame; his unshaven face was deeply lined, and his lips slightly parted. There was no movement. I felt a sudden spasm of fear. But it swiftly receded. He was sleeping, only sleeping....

"By the time the telephone brought the first tentative vote projections, Kennedy and Fred Dutton had joined the group in the Frankenheimer living room. One of the networks, having surveyed voters in key precincts as they left the polling places, was now predicting a 49-41 victory over McCarthy.... 'They were pretty accurate in the other primaries,' Kennedy remarked.

"'But not in Oregon,' said Dutton.

"'We lost all the undecided there,' Kennedy replied, then added, 'Maybe they won't break away from us here. If only we can push up our percentage a point or two.'

"It seemed then that the extra point or two would make all the difference. We all believed that it was not enough for Kennedy to win in California. In order to soften the blow of his Oregon defeat, we felt he had to win big, and that meant more than 50 percent of the vote, with 40 percent or less going to McCarthy....

"We talked idly, reminisced, discussed future strategy, as if the big victor were already n— not because we were sure, but because that's the only way politicians can talk."

"But Kennedy was so tired that even the easily familiar shoptalk came haltingly, and he soon went back to the bedroom for a nap while I drove to my hotel to draft the victory statement."

—pp. 535-536 Richard Goodwin; Remembering America

The Dinner at the Frankenheimers

One account has John & Evans Frankenheimer planning an early dinner and invited some guests over

According to Robert Blair Kaiser's book RFK Must Die

the guest list included director Roman Polanski whose movie Rosemary's Baby was selling a lot of tickets and his wife Sharon Tate

8

Other guests were future head of Disney Pictures Frank Wells and his wife Luanne, plus actress Anjanette Comer, nightclub owner Brian Morris, set designer Richard Sylbert, and a woman named Sarah Hudson, who apparently was dating Sylbert at the time.

(I e-mailed Mr. Kaiser a few years ago, questioning him as to his source for the 6-4 dinner in Malibu, and he replied that Frankenheimer himself told him about the guest list and the early meal at his Malibu house.
Mr. Kaiser's email, dated 5-31-2002, reads: "Ed, yes, John Frankenheimer was my source on the dinner and the dinner guests. As Frankenheimer recalled the story, it seems hardly likely likely that he could have gotten the dates confused. He said he and Bobby attended the dinner, then hit Pacific Coast Hiway and into LA on the I-10, to arrive at the Ambassador.
I don't put the time down for that arrival, but I am now thinking, since you ask, that it couldn't have been any earlier than 9 p.m. and possibly even later, because there was still some uncertainty about the election outcome when they arrived. So they could well have had dinner from 7 to 8 p.m. or even 9....")

—printout of Kaiser email in RFK chrono files in bankers box in gray baby barn

Perhaps Tate, Polanski and the others were invited for dinner

but RFK had been too eager to get to the hotel so Frankenheimer quickly took him before, or just as, the guests arrived?

Or, maybe they arrived, but Robert Kennedy had already departed for the Ambassador?

Robert Kennedy, His Life, by Evan Thomas does not mention an early dinner in Malibu

(I wrote Roman Polanski in Paris seeking clarification but no reply)

Another Account of The Dinner

Apparently John Frankenheimer had planned an early dinner and invited some guests over. According to Robert Blair Kaiser's book R.F.K. Must Die, the guest list included director Roman Polanski whose movie Rosemary's Baby was just about to open, and his wife Sharon Tate.

Other guests, in Kaiser's recounting, were future head of Disney Pictures Frank Wells and his wife Luanne, plus actress Anjanette Comer, nightclub owner Brian Morris, set designer Richard Sylbert, and a woman named Sarah Hudson, who apparently was dating Sylbert at the time.

(I e-mailed Mr. Kaiser a few years ago, and he replied that Frankenheimer himself told him about the guest list and the early meal at his Malibu house.)

However, Evans Frankenheimer, widow of John Frankenheimer, informed me by e-mail during the writing of this book, that there was no dinner served to Sharon Tate, Roman Polanski, Richard Sylbert, Sarah Hudson and the others. She writes: "There was no dinner scheduled at our house in Malibu on the evening of the Democratic Primary, June 4th, 1968. The Kennedys wanted privacy during their stay at our house. There was, however, a large party scheduled at The Factory after the primary. The people you mentioned in your letter were on that guest list. It was not our private party and Sharon and Roman had been invited as guests of Dick Sylbert - the set designer."

Richard Sylbert's widow, Sharmagne St. John, checked Sylbert's day books, and reported the following entry by Sylbert: "On the afternoon of June 5th, (actually the 4th), 1968 we all got into our respective Limousines outside the Frankenheimer's house and drove cautiously downtown to the Ambassador Hotel and walked into the Presidential Suites. One group disappeared with Bobby, while myself and Sarah (Hudson), along with several others went into a nearby suite. There were several old friends already ensconced there, Budd Schulberg, and as I remember, George Plimpton along with the mob of the faithful, chatting and watching the returns on the TV sets in each room...."

So, what is the answer? The past is like quicksand.

—from E.S., The Life and Times of Sharon Tate

RFK took a further nap (apparently in the bedroom) and then toward afternoon's end, around 6 p.m. was eager to head for the Ambassador Hotel in downtown L.A.

Around 6:30 John Frankenheimer himself drove RFK in his Rolls Royce to victory headquarters

Apparently Ethel was not quite ready, and went to the hotel a bit later.

The children were to be transported to a bungalow at the Beverly Hills Hotel

Problems of History: Figuring out the Trip to the Ambassador

1. Evan Thomas, in his book Robert Kennedy, His Life, p. 387, wrote “At 6:30 it was finally time to head back into Los Angeles....

Frankenheimer daubed Kennedy's scraped and bruised forehead with some actor's makeup and Kennedy put on a blue pin-striped suit and a white shirt that made him look dashing.....” (There was no mention of Ethel on the trip.)

2. Jules Witcover says RFK and key assistant Fred Dutton, but without Ethel were driven to the Ambassador by “about 6:30.”

Kennedy was eager to get to the hotel, “but Ethel wasn't ready,” so Frankenheimer wheeled them in the Rolls.

—Jules Witcover, 85 Days, p. 254

3. “John Frankenheimer drove the Kennedys and the children down to town in his big car over back roads at speeds that made Ethel gasp.... At 7:15, they drew up before the Ambassador.”

—Lester David, Ethel p. 196

4. Robert Blair Kaiser, in his book R.F.K. Must Die, p. 15, mentions only RFK being driven by Frankenheimer to the Ambassador; but does not write that only RFK and Frankenheimer were in the Rolls.

Frankenheimer wheeled his Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud rather rapidly on the Santa Monica Freeway.

Since the last week of March, Frankenheimer had shot thousands of feet of film for a documentary on RFK to help him win in the fall

Kaiser's description, from Frankenheimer, has it that RFK had been edgy that evening, unable to sit still during supper, preoccupied about the outcome of the California primary.

Frankenheimer missed the Vermont off ramp, "and got tangled up in the Harbor Freeway interchange. He cursed angrily as he tried to get the Rolls headed back toward the Ambassador.

"Take it easy, John," said Bob Kennedy... "Life is too short."

Agitated Indeed

He couldn't really rest till after the Convention in Chicago so much convincing, even wheedling and begging he & his team would have to do and then of course not much of a rest because the fall campaign against Richard Nixon, who seemed likely to prevail over Nelson Rockefeller then would loom

So, no wonder RFK was agitated at the hotel
A writer for Look magazine also noticed the agitation.
Had RFK maybe learned something?
His mind was long accustomed to compartmentalizing information

Whatever the reason the ocean had fully restored his vim

Kennedy's Suite at the Ambassador
the party

In the eager energy of the packed victory suite RFK had Hubert Humphrey on his mind

talking about making Humphrey debate him how he was "going to chase his ass
all around the country."

Meanwhile, there was jubilation in the ballroom Young fellows in Kennedy straw hats & women in white blouses,
red Kennedy sashes
and blue skirts

The polls closed at 8
It became certain that a huge Los Angeles pro-RFK vote was surging him to Victory!

Shortly after 9, Senator George McGovern called with good news from South Dakota Bobby had won with more votes than Humphrey and McCarthy combined

—P.S., Pierre Salinger p. 196

A call came in from Richard Daley (mayor of Chi & a Big Shaker in the Party He'd run the Democratic Convention in Chicago in August)
He was now an official RFK supporter (Pierre Salinger was next to Kennedy when Daley called:

"Bobby & I exchanged a look that we both knew meant only one thing—
he had the nomination."

Sirhan Sirhan that Day and Night

Three days previous, on Saturday, June 1, 24 year old Sirhan Sirhan had gone to the Corona Police Firing Range, where he later recalled that the range master showed him how to shoot at human targets and vital organs. Then, on the afternoon of June 4th, while the polls were still open for the Primary, Sirhan went target shooting in a company of a pretty young woman, quick-firing 300 to 400 rounds with a .22 at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club in Duarte, outside L.A.

Sirhan's .22

In recent years, Sirhan has been examined and hypnotized for 60 hours over a three-year period, beginning in 2008, by a Harvard University memory expert, Dr. Daniel Brown. Half of the interviews involved hypnosis, and Dr. Brown has reported, in a court filing in 2011, the following about Sirhan Sirhan's memories of what he did on June 4, 1968:

“Mr. Sirhan freely recalled going to the gun range during the day of the assassination.” Sirhan claimed he arrived at the Ambassador later that evening, looking for a party. Dr. Brown states that Sirhan recalled: “Now I'm going to another area ... I don't know the name ... Later I heard it was the Embassy Room ... it's like a huge hallway ... tremendous lights ... no tables ... the brightness ... a lot of people ... I'm getting tired... I wasn't expecting this ... It's getting hot ... very hot ... I want to get a drink. A make-shift bar area ... I see a bartender... a white smock... he looked Latin ... we just nodded ... I told him what I wanted ... it's like I have a relationship with this guy ... Tom Collins ... I drink it while I'm walking around ... this bartender ... he wasn't looking for a sale ... he wasn't talkative ... it is like he's communicating with gestures ... a nod after I paid for it.

“I'm still looking around ... he didn't make it (the drink) right in front of me ... he made it and brought it over ... after that I came back again ... it was like a routine between us ... like I'm more familiar ... like I'm a regular customer of his ... I don't remember seeing him before ... it seemed like he was a professional ... he never initiated a conversation but after a second time it was like there was a communication between us ... he knew what I wanted ... it's hard to figure out if he's targeting me or I'm targeting him ... I don't remember him saying anything like 'shoot Kennedy' or anything like that ... he's just very quiet ... I begin to get tired ... I sat down on one of the couches... I remember feeling that I had to go home... very bright lights... like under the sunlight... I want to go home ... I've seen the party.”

Dr. Brown: “It is notable that at this point in time Mr. Sirhan can only think about going home. Again, his expressed desire to leave the party and go home does not suggest the motivation of an assassin ready to kill a presidential candidate shortly thereafter.”

Sirhan did attempt to go home: “I get in the car ... I couldn't think about driving the car

... it was late ... I sit in the car ... I couldn't make myself drive it ... There was no way I could drive the car ... I don't want to chance it ... I wanted to sleep ... I wanted to sleep ... sleep ... sleep ... sleep. Then I go back to the hotel to get some coffee."

According to Brown, "Mr. Sirhan recalled re-tracing his steps to the same bar. When Mr. Sirhan arrived at the bar he asked the same bartender for coffee. The bartender told him that there was no coffee at the bar. An attractive woman with a polka dot dress was sitting at the bar talking to the bartender. She over-heard Sirhan asking for coffee and she said that she knew where coffee was."

Sirhan does not recall bringing his .22 from his DeSoto into the hotel. Dr. Brown: "Mr. Sirhan is adamant in his belief that he never brought the gun into the Ambassador Hotel. When asked to explain how he might have gotten a gun, he recalled being bumped up against and pushed around in the crowd on his way back to the bar to get coffee. He speculated, without specific recall, that the gun might have been placed in his waist band without his knowing it. It is also possible that the girl in the polkadot dress handed him the gun, but he does not remember so."

The Delegate Situation

Hubert Humphrey announced he was running in late April after Johnson had abdicated

He picked up backing from labor unions and other Democratic groups

He did not enter the primaries but focused on getting commitments from delegates in non-primary states while Humphrey stand-ins ran in certain states.

By the California primary Hubert Humphrey
was ahead in committed delegates

With a California victory RFK had a good chance to overtake the vp on the issue of his support for the war

(In the 1968 primaries

- a. Lyndon B. Johnson won New Hampshire
- b. Eugene McCarthy had won Wisconsin & Oregon and would go to to win Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania
- c. Robert F. Kennedy won California, Indiana, Nebraska, DC and South Dakota
- d. Stephen M. Young, as stand-in for Hubert Humphrey, won Ohio
- e. George Smathers, standing in for Humphrey, won Florida)

RFK's Plans for the Next Several Days

He intended to rest 2-3 days in California then head off to New York in the struggle with Humphrey for the June 18 Primary

Were Angry, Murder-Minded CIA Officers on Hand in the Embassy Room at the Ambassador Hotel Before and After the Shooting?

A few years ago a filmmaker name Shane O'Sullivan became interested in the killing, and put together a film titled, RFK Must Die (not to be confused with Kaiser's book)

During his research Mr. O'Sullivan viewed still photos (on microfilm) and films taken at the Ambassador Hotel that fateful night and found images of three humans which he is sure are key CIA mal-minds on hand in the Embassy Room before and just after the shooting:

1. David Morales, a hefty CIA veteran with a Touch of Evil to his demeanor who apparently later on in 1973 bragged about being in Dallas during JFK and also on hand for RFK:
" I was in Los Angeles when we got the little bastard." 2. Gordon Campbell a CIA officer

3. George Joannides a highly placed CIA snuff-oid

(Joannides was hauled out from retirement later (in 1978) to serve as the CIA's liaison with the far-famed House Select Committee on Assassinations)

Morales was seen standing in the back of the ballroom in "news coverage" images
"in the moments between the end of" RFK's speech and the shooting

"Thirty minutes later," O'Sullivan has written, "there he was again, casually floating around the darkened ballroom while an associate with a pencil moustache took notes."

(could the pencil moustached guy be the one mentioned by Sirhan Sirhan as taking him to the police firing range & conducting notebook-writing sessions with him via short wave radio?)

(Also the possibility that the wide-bodied and hefty CIA regime-toppler named David Morales was at the Ambassador calls to mind an FBI interview with Juan Romero an employee at the Ambassador kitchen who had knelt above the stricken Candidate by the ice machine:

"Approximately two days before the shooting occurred.... he (Romero) was working at the hotel when he was approached by two white males. He recalls that one of the white males was very stout.... and approximately 45 years old.... The stout one talked to him and asked him where he could get a hotel jacket similar to the one Romero was wearing. He told Romero that they were police officers, but Romero did not ask for or see any identification.

"Romero reluctantly took these individuals down to the supply room area, but when they arrived there, the supply room was closed."

—FBI Kensalt RFK report, p. 383 in RFK boxes in gray baby barn

Was the stout man Romero mentioned

(There has been controversy raised over the identification of Gordon Campbell and George Joannides with some claiming they were merely executives with the Bulova Watch Company.)

The questions remain: were dire CIA snuff-oids on hand at the Ambassador at the moment the Senator was hit?

Kennedy and the Kitchen Route

The candidate tended to use back elevators and then a path through the kitchen to the hotel ballrooms for speeches

In Oregon he used the kitchen path, and at the hotel in San Diego, a freight elevator so Sirhan's handlers knew well before the night of fate that since the target would come down the freight elevator & through the kitchen to the Ambassador ballroom he'd likely go back out that way.

The Ambassador, with 600 rooms had plenty of space for a support team to work on an assassination

Way Above Fire Code

The crowd was up to maybe 1,800 in the Embassy Room
way above fire code,
and it was very very warm

The overflow went down one floor
to the Ambassador Ballroom

One thing the thousands of pages of FBI RFK assassination files reveal was how many film crews from around the world were positioned in the victory room

18

I figure the killers maybe had a TV or media team in the ballroom with walky talky or radio ear piece contact with Sirhan's baby sitters

(Recall the assertion that Army personnel were taking pictures from a nearby roof before and during the moments that Martin Luther King was shot)

All the film and TV crews that were listed in the FBI Kensalt files makes me wonder if the kill-team did not actually at least film the stage while they kept their eyes on it if only to radio the kitchen that Kennedy was on his way)

Additional Killers at the Ambassador?

Writer/filmmaker Shane O'Sullivan showed former CIA officer Brad Ayers a twenty minute film of footage taken that night at the Ambassador and assembled by LAPD

and Ayers identified a guy who was a CIA off-oid named Gordon Campbell, who was walking with another guy through the crowd right around the time of the killing.

Ayers located for O'Sullivan another guy named "David Rabern, Covert Operations Specialist" whom O'Sullivan interviews on videotape.

Rabern lived near the Ambassador at the time of the assassination.
Rabern recalled on tape that a CIA guy suggested he be there on election night.
He was, and was leaving the hotel, after the speech, when he heard the faint popping sounds of the shooting.

O'Sullivan showed Rabern a picture of Campbell and Joannides, 19 and Rabern said he'd seen Campbell earlier that evening speaking with Morales.

David Rabern, a CIA agent in L.A. in June of 1968, speculated that he felt that there were probably more than one armed assassin on hand in the hotel that night, prepared to kill RFK.

He spoke about camouflaged firearms, housed in various ways, such as in a purse, which could be "popped open" to reveal a firearm. Pop pop.

"Silencers can be made out of all kinds of things," said Mr. Rabern
"maybe a book or something like that."

You walk up, say, to someone in a busy airport.
"You pop them. Then you walk away in the other direction."

O'Sullivan asked Rabern if he could tell O'Sullivan how he knew Gordon Campbell. Rabern replied, after a slight pause, "No."

Is Campbell still alive? asked the narrator.
Rabern: "To my knowledge, he is."

More than One Robo-programmed to Help Kill RFK?

It's indeed possible that more than one person was programmed to act under hypnotic suggestion

Don't scoff!
Robotech is robotech & likely much more perfected in 1968 14 years after the experiments of 1954

It's possible that the robo-doctors got their hands on Mr. Cesar the security guard escorting Kennedy at the end.
And maybe even one or two members of Kennedy's entourage or even a staff person at the hotel to help steer Kennedy toward the Fatal & Unguarded Death-Trough

(Indeed, Theodore Charach, creator of the film, “The Second Gun” in a press conference in 1995 stated that he believes that Thane Eugene Cesar shot RFK in the head but was programmed so that, like Sirhan, he has no memory of the shooting)

—from article on Charach 1995 press conference <http://www.ctka.net/pr795-2gun.html>

(Back in 1971, Mr. Charach filmed an interview with Don Schulman, at the time of the assassination a runner with LA tv station KNXT)

It contained the following colloquy:

“Now, how far was Sirhan from Senator Kennedy at the time?”

Schulman: “I would say approximately from three to six feet.”

“Where was this guard who was firing his gun?”

“He was standing directly to the side and back of Kennedy.”

“On what side?”

“He was standing on the right-hand side... I didn’t see everything that happened that night because of the blinding lights and the people screaming, but the things that I did see, I’m sure about. And that is, Kennedy being shot three times;
 the guard definitely pulled out his gun and fired.”

—pp 329-239, Shane O’Sullivan, Who Killed Bobby?

Hypnotism expert Dr. Herbert Spiegel gave the excellent researchers Jonn Christian and William Turner a lead on robo:

Anything mentioned in the presence of a subject under hypnosis is automatically etched into his mind especially if it comes from the hypnotist, and it might flow out at any time

I think that the intelligence agency robot-makers had public interfaces, probably some hypnotists in L.A.

recruited victims did background checks then did their work on them preparing them to kill

Sirhan
 was unable to recall anything about the assassination during a 3-hr meeting with Kenneth Hahn and L.A. elected Supervisor Baxter Ward at Soledad Prison on June 2, 1977

"I can't remember I can't remember" he said when asked about motive and if anybody else were involved

It's a blank.

Sirhan Recalling the Woman in the Polka Dot Dress

"He remembered going to the hotel, he said, but not necessarily because Kennedy would be there. The night was still a jumble of twisted images. There was the meeting with the girl in the polka dot dress whose name he never knew.

'I met the girl and had coffee with her,' he recounted. 'She wanted heavy on the cream and sugar.

After that I don't remember a thing until they pounced on me in that pantry.'" —William Turner's report on visiting Sirhan at San Quentin 9-12-72. in The Assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, p. 193 Carol and Graf edition.

Sirhan Staring by the Teletype

About 10:30, a Western Union teletype operator noticed that Sirhan had come over to her machine and stood there staring at it She asked him what he wanted.

He didn't answer, just kept staring

She asked him again

He just kept staring.

She said that if he wanted the latest figures on Kennedy he'd have to look at the other machine

He just kept staring.

Was he really programmed to shoot at Robert Kennedy?

The CIA and the military had developed the techniques to fashion robo-assassins back in the 1950s.

Techniques are techniques and they existed in the spring of 1968.

There were those in the Los Angeles area in 1968 with government expertise in programming people to be unwitting CIA couriers, at least

Did one or more of them robo Sirhan's behavior by programming him to shoot the candidate?

It's likely they started studying RFK's final 85 days parsing the campaign plans till he could be isolated correctly & the scythe of the right could cut

(a good book to read, which explores the question of robo, is William Turner's and Jonn Christian's
The Assassination of Robert F. Kennedy)

Candy Jones

In '76 a very interesting book was published
The Control of Candy Jones by Donald Bain which told the story of top fashion model Candy Jones who was recruited as a courier by the CIA and whose control officer and hypno-programmer was a California gynecologist who created an alternative personality in Ms. Jones which would surface and take control during courier missions

which lasted through the 1960s into the early '70s

Jones claimed that her California hypno-programmer once took her to CIA headquarters in Langley to demonstrate how completely she had been programmed

The robo-programmer would summon Jones's alternate personality by saying "A.G.! A.G.!"

or over the phone, "tick tock tick tock....."

Jones' CIA hypnoprogrammer has been identified as a gynecologist with a practice in San Jose

Also involved in CIA hypnoprogramming was a Los Angeles doctor named William Kroger a well-published expert on hypnosis who taught, it is alleged, robo techniques to the San Jose gynecologist

Robo Instructions By Phone

In the summer of 1978, during Jimmy Carter's term, the CIA released to the public some 200 additional documents on Experiments with Hypnosis, and Hypnosis-with-Drugs (this was during the tenure of CIA director Stansfield Turner)

Writer David Wise, a specialist in U.S. intelligence activities and government secrecy, published an article in September of 1978

in which he quoted from one of the just-released CIA mind control documents.

A February 1954 memo stated that a CIA hypnotist got a woman "who had expressed a fear of firearms" to shoot a pistol at a sleeping associate. The woman was told to "pick up a pistol nearby and fire it at Miss (name deleted)." The hypno-programmer told the pistol-holder that "her rage would be so great that she would not hesitate to kill."

The memo goes on to say that the woman "carried out these suggestions to the letter, including firing the gun at Miss (name deleted), then proceeding to fall into a deep sleep." Then the woman was awakened whereupon she could recall nothing, would not touch the gun, "and

The same batch of 1978 CIA releases showed that programmed CIA hypno-couriers could (like Candy Jones) be put into a trance state during a telephone call from a robo-handler by means of a code word.

CIA Robo-Murd

January 1954 and Forward

The CIA called it “ARTICHOKE.”

Among other things,

it was the code-name for a technique to cause someone to do something “against their will” including murder.

There was a CIA group called the “Artichoke team” which was ordered in January 1954 to “give an evaluation” of a “problem”

What problem? The following one:

“As a ‘trigger mechanism’ for a bigger project

(maybe a CIA coup somewhere)

it was proposed that an individual..... well established socially...

(in a country whose name was deleted by the CIA in their Freedom of Information Act response)

be induced under Artichoke to perform an act involuntarily against a prominent (deleted) politician or if necessary, against an American official....

“It was proposed that the individual could be surreptitiously drugged

....at a social party, Artichoke applied, and the subject induced to perform the act of attempted assassination at some later date.”

In late January of ’54, there was a CIA dispatch which read “Herewith report of Artichoke team on first assignment.

Considering the speed with which we had to operate,

I believe it went extremely well.

We were ready when called upon for support, even though the operation did not materialize.”

In this poem, I use the term “ARTICHOKE” to cover all the CIA research till, say, late ’67

such as the implantation of alternative personalities

All of it under the hubris of off-oid Dr. Sydney Gottlieb but fed also to the Army, Navy and Air Force all feeding from the same robo-trough

CIA Director Stansfield Turner testified in 1977 that the CIA research into robowash & behavior control was carried out at 80 institutions including 44 colleges or universities as well as hospitals, prisons & pharmaceutical companies

as ARTICHOKE was re-named MK-ULTRA which had its heyday during the years 1953-1963

MK-ULTRA had in its service 185 non-governmental researchers in 149 separate research projects

WKUH— Willing to Kill Under Hypnosis

CIA hypno-research 1951-1954

“Walter Bedell Smith, Director of Central Intelligence in the early 1950s, supported mind control experimentation in a program so secret that all correspondence about it was on an EYES ONLY basis. Smith wanted to know ‘whether effective, practical techniques exist whereby an individual can be cause to become subservient to an imposed control; and subsequently that individual be unaware of the event.’

—Memorandum from Walter B. Smith

This became the prime goal for CI research over the next two decades. Of special importance to Smith was the ability to utilize hypnosis for the creation of amnesia.

One CIA memo states the research goal as follows: "CI interest is in the specific subject of devising scientific methods for controlling the minds of individuals."

— Report of Special Meeting, June 1951

Another CIA Memorandum (1952) stated the objective in this language:

"Can we get control of an individual to the point where he will do our bidding against his will and even against such fundamental laws of nature ... as self-preservation?"

Morse Allen, in the CIA's Office of Security, became interested in hypnosis as part of the CIA's Project BLUEBIRD (later renamed ARTICHOKE). He placed a telephone call to a stage hypnotist in New York to arrange for CIA agents to receive specialized training in hypnosis. When the CIA agents arrived for training, the hypnotist spent an hour and a half talking about his sexual misadventures with hypnosis. He claimed that he used hypnosis to induce young girls to have sexual intercourse with him. When he traveled, he told the agents, he spent five nights a week in bed with different women. One of his latest conquests involved the hypnotic seduction of a woman who played in a concert orchestra; he had given her an hypnotic suggestion that he was her husband.

These acts of immorality interested the CIA agents. It demonstrated the possibility of moving people beyond their moral codes, the possibility of creating sensory distortions, the possibility of utilizing covert rapid inductions, and the possibility of subsequent amnesia. Thus, the CIA's earliest interest in hypnosis research was sparked by hypnosis being used for the purpose of seduction.

Beginning in 1951, Office of Security personnel met two or three times a week and practiced hypnosis on their secretaries. Occasionally they were joined by hypnosis experts. The records of their work for the next several years are contained in more than two thousand pages of documents.

By February 1954, Morse Allen had replicated many laboratory studies confirming that subjects will apparently follow hypnotic instructions to "kill." Allen hypnotized one secretary into a deep trance and instructed her to remain "asleep" until he ordered otherwise. He then hypnotized another secretary and told her that if she failed to awaken the sleeper, she would become enraged and shoot to kill. Even though the second secretary had previously indicated she had a fear of firearms, she picked up the apparently loaded pistol and "shot" the unawakened sleeper. When brought out of the trance, the secretary who pulled the trigger had amnesia for the event and vehemently denied she would ever shoot anyone.

To dramatize their results, the CIA experimenters wrote a script for a film to demonstrate the remarkable powers of hypnosis. The film was entitled The Black Art. In the opening sequence an "Oriental character" is having a drink with an American agent. A drug surreptitiously placed in the drink causes the Oriental man to fall asleep. While drugging, he is hypnotized and programmed. The next scene shows him opening a safe containing secret files. He removes these files and brings them to the American agent who then reinforces the hypnotic suggestions. At this point the voice of a narrator asks:

Could what you have seen been accomplished without the individual's knowledge?

Yes.

Against the individual's will?

Yes.

With complete amnesia of performing the act?

How?

Through the powers of suggestion and hypnosis.

By mid-1954, Morse Allen's group was pushing hard for permission to conduct "terminal experiments" with hypnosis. Allen wanted to know if the hypnotic controls, and buried information, could withstand torture that could prove fatal, and whether the hypnotic controls would stand fast against the unlocking suggestions of another hypnotist. Permission was granted and covert field tests were scheduled abroad during the summer of 1954. At the last moment, however, the tests were cancelled. It is not known whether they were ever rescheduled.

Morse Allen's work drew to a close at the end of 1954 when his dominion over the hypnosis experiments was altered by a much larger program on mind and behavior control, named MKULTRA.

MK-SEARCH, Project Spellbinder

In late August of 1964 CIA official Sydney Gottlieb put into place a project called MK-SEARCH.

setting up safe houses in Chi and LA and "another $150,000 had been given to a Baltimore laboratory to research micro-organisms that could 'induce anything from kinky sex to simulating death by carbon-dioxide.'

"MK-SEARCH expanded rapidly. Abandoned projects were reactivated, old ideas revived. Among them was the use of hypnotism.... Dr. Gottlieb gave that project a new code-name, Operation Spellbinder and assigned an initial $50,000 to try one more to create an assassin who would strike upon receiving a key word planted in his mind under hypnosis.

28

“A member of the American Society of Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis was recruited for the purpose. The hypnotist was dubbed ‘Fingers’ by Dr. Gottlieb from the theatrical way he used his hands to put a patient into a trance. Dr. Gottlieb chose him because his file said Fingers had no qualms about ‘terminal’ experiments.”

1967-'68? Project Often (or Often-Chickwit)

“When Dr. Gottlieb took over the CIA’s new Office of Research and Development (ORD), it quickly became his flagship for even more bizarre and potentially far-reaching experiments in mind control.

“The most innovative and daring Agency doctors had been transferred there, and a number of young consultants from civilian medical research laboratories had been recruited.

“The ORD team also included chemists, biologists & general physicians from the Army Chemical Corps. Dr. Gottlieb had persuaded Helms to authorize $150,000 as an initial grant to ORD’s first project. It was called Operation Often.

“Dr. Gottlieb reminded colleagues that ‘often’ they were close to goals before pulling back, and ‘often’ they forgot the only scientific way forward was to learn from the past. That would not happen in Operation Often.

“This operation was based on Dr. Cameron’s earlier research into the supernatural. Operation Often was going to go further, exploring the world of black magic.

“In Dr. Gottlieb’s mission statement the intention was to ‘harness the forces of darkness and challenge the concept that the inner reaches of the mind are beyond reach. The project will aim to create a new kind of psycho-civilized human being.’”

Operation Often, writes Gordon Thomas, visited fortune tellers and “in the larger cities, the well appointed offices of the psychics who served the rich and powerful.”

Researchers used the cover of the Scientific Research Institute.

It looked into demonology, and satanists and satanism.

This project began ca. 1969-1970, and lasted till ca. early '72.

Robo of Sirhan at L.A. Parties?

In my researches for my book on the Manson group I learned of the work of an INS agent who was investigating a cult which had a satanic component which supposedly put on parties in L.A. in late '67-early '68 which Sirhan attended.

Was he being handled by a CIA-impregnated cult? That is, were the Artichoke/MK-ULTRA/Project Often methods applied to Sirhan at one or more of these parties?

A Volunteer and the Woman in the Polkadot Dress

11:30 p.m.

A key-punch operator named Sandra Serrano had chaired the Pasadena-Altadena area Youth For Kennedy Committee and had come to the Ambassador to celebrate but, because of the heat, left the crowded ballroom to sit outside on a exit stairway. It was about 11:30 p.m.

Three people came up the stairway past her a woman in a polkadot dress and two men
one of them she later recognized as Sirhan Sirhan

She remained on the stairway, she said, about another 1/2 hour

Walky Talky Outside the Door

Outside RFK's door at the hotel were plenty of reporters plus a woman with a walky-talky, for instance

so that a spotter for the kill-team could have easily been there unnoticed.

RFK went down one flight to speak with NBC then back up to do the same with CBS, then ABC, then Metromedia

He was pitching McCarthy and his supporters to join him to deny Humphrey the nomination

California was not the final —but was the primal primary and now it was a matter of phone-power, mystique, twisting local Dems

The Kennedy Suite toward Midnight

The place was packed with favored friends & campaigners just before going down to the ballroom he was talking with a close assistant and whispered that he thought they should tell Senator McCarthy if he should withdraw and support him “I’ll make him secretary of state.”

In the superenergy of the victory suite RFK had Hubert Humphrey also on his mind

and, as we have noted,
how he was “going to chase his ass

because at the moment of RFK’s final walk toward the elevator down to the kitchen the delegate totals were:
Hubert Humphrey 561
Robert F. Kennedy 393
Eugene McCarthy 258.

In the final minutes in his suite he chatted with Budd Schulberg and some of his staff on what to say

Kennedy was speaking with John Lewis: “You let me down today,” he joked. “More Mexican-Americans voted for me than Negroes.”

Those who heard laughed. “Wait for me,” Kennedy said to Lewis, “I’ll be back in fifteen or twenty minutes.”

To the Civil Rights hero, RFK looked so happy “he could have floated out of the room”

He had a gulp of ginger ale Scanned himself in a mirror then he was urged to go down

As he left he asked that Al Lowenstein (organizer of the '67 Dump Johnson movement) be telephoned in New York to say that RFK'd call him right after the victory speech.

RFK wanted to use the same path downward as back in Oregon

Very likely his decision to use the kitchen path was noted over radios

There was a sort of gridlock in the hallway headed for the the elevators

He encountered his 11-year old daughter Courtney and paused a couple of minutes asking her about what her day had been like

He stopped again for a brief chat with famous columnist Joseph Kraft
who had advised that RFK abandon the primaries & the campaign

He threw up a joke to Kennedy in the packed hallway, “Now you're trapped,” meaning that with the California victory he would have to see it through to Chicago Kennedy nodded and smiled then walked onward

They went down a freight elevator and through the kitchen, then up a ramp, then turning left, up through a curtain festooned with bunting with the candidate appearing on an utterly packed stage overlooking the ultrapacked Embassy Room

He walked onto the stage with Doris Huerta (co-founder with Cesar Chávez of the National Farm Workers Association) and escorted by Olympic decathlon champ Rafer Johnson and pro football star Roosevelt Grier plus of course Ethel and some of their children

The applause and excitement was enormous

There were jubilant young men in Kennedy straw hats & women in white blouses

& blue skirts

At first, there was trouble with the microphones on stage which after about 20-30 seconds was taken care of and wow was the stage crowded!

It was a time of playful joy
The winner first congratulated Don Drysdale of the Dodgers who'd just won a 3 hit shutout

"He pitched his sixth straight shutout tonight and I hope we have as good fortune in our campaign."

He thanked those who'd helped him
It was very very hot in the ballroom

The speech would run around 12 1/2 minutes well enough time to place the robo-array into position

Too Close to Ethel

The pregnant Ethel Kennedy required security protection during the speech

She was pregnant with their 11th child! and resplendent in what one biographer described as a sleeveless orange and white Courreges minidress, with horizontal stripes above the midriff, large circles below, with white stockings.

On the platform Ronald Bennett was taking pictures
—the area was shovy-packed, and his camera, in the crush, kept pushing against Ethel;

She complained (Bennett was situated right behind her)

"Rosy Grier grabbed him from behind, placing one hand around his stomach, so as to prevent him from being pushed into Mrs. Kennedy."

—FBI Kensalt investigation p. 348

Frankenheimer Watching on TV Monitor

After John Frankenheimer had driven Kennedy to the Ambassador, as he later told an interviewer,
 "I was supposed to be the guy standing next to Bobby on the podium."

Instead, the filmmaker decided to watch the speech on a tv monitor "in the archway." As he was watching, he believed he perceived Sirhan Sirhan brushing past him. "It was like Manchurian Candidate.
 I felt this shaking inside of me."

Just before the shooting, Frankenheimer told the interviewer he returned to his automobile to await the candidate, and heard the horrid news over the car radio.

Waiting with Frankenheimer was his wife Evans Perhaps they were going to drive Ethel and Robert to the victory celebration at the Factory discothèque

Outside the Ambassador John Frankenheimer and his wife Evans waited in the Rolls during the speech to drive Ethel and Robert to the Factory

Pierre Salinger During the Final Speech

While RFK spoke, "I began to think about the plans for the rest of the evening. I was hosting a big victory party at The Factory, a new Los Angeles discotheque of which I was part owner, along with Paul Newman, Peter Lawford, and Sammy Davis, Jr." (The latter was scheduled to perform at the party.)

Kennedy after the tiring rigors of California intended to rest 2-3 days in California then head to campaign in
        New York

A Plan to Talk with Pencil Press Fred Dutton Interrupts and Changes RFK's Stage-Exit Plan

The FBI interviewed Uno Timanson, Ambassador vp:

“After the Senator had completed his victory speech in the Embassy Room, he was preparing to lead the Senator down down to the Ambassador Room through the enclosed stairway. Just before the the Senator's speech was completed, Fred Dutton, one of the Senator's aides, asked Timanson if there were television sets in the Ambassador Room, and Timanson told him there were. It was then decided that the Senator would visit the Press Room to make a press release. Timanson escorted the Senator and his party through the hallway behind the Embassy Room and into the pantry area.”

Did someone suggest this new route to Dutton?
If so, then was that person part of the plot?

So, the decision was made by Kennedy's staff likely solely by Fred Dutton apparently on the moment to do a session with the pencil press in the Colonial Room

His security guys were prepared to take him to the pencils by side steps off the stage

Therefore, while Kennedy was standing at the dais to speak Fred Dutton told Uno Timanson, an executive at the hotel that Kennedy would not be going down to the Ambassador Ballroom one floor beneath the Embassy where the overflow was watching RFK on television monitors

(The official daily press schedule had indicated he would go to the Ambassador Ballroom after his speech. Below is part of the “Memo to the Press” listing the June 4 schedule issued by Kennedy headquarters:

—from FBI Kensalt report, p. 806

“The Senator will go to the Colonial Room,” Fred Dutton told Timanson “to have a session with the pencil press.”

(see Robert Kaiser, RFK Must Die, pp. 23-24)

The hit-group likely had a person on hand, posing as security personnel who would have learned the new plan for RFK after the speech and thus was able to maneuver Sirhan Sirhan into the shooting zone by the RFK path through the kitchen pantry (Hours later Fred Dutton was video-interviewed. Dutton said, “While the Senator was speaking, (Bill) Barry and I went to look to see what would be the route to take him from the stage to where he went next.

There was one possibility of his going off to the right of the stage and down a flight of stairs to an overflow crowd in a room on the next lower floor. However, in order to avoid further crowd scenes which we had in the Embassy Room... and because we had a number of reporters waiting to talk to him, we decided to take him... to a press room adjoining the Embassy Room.

“Barry and I saw the Senator was speaking, walked that route, through the hallway where the shooting finally occurred. Walked over, walked back very quickly... We came back and went up on the stage.”)

p. 169

Sirhan Taken by Polkadot to Ante-Room by the Stage Where RFK is Speaking

Sirhan’s Later Recollections of Being in an Ante Room off the Stage Where RFK is Speaking then Being led into the Kitchen Pantry

Dr. Daniel Brown, in his report to the court on his 60 hours of interviewing and hypnotizing Sirhan Sirhan, stated that Sirhan was led to a room off the stage while Kennedy was giving his 10 minute victory speech:

“The woman in the polka dot dress then took Sirhan by the hand and led him to the ante-room behind the stage where Senator Kennedy was speaking.” There they found some coffee at which point, Sirhan begins to feel attracted to her (“It was my job to woo her”) when all of a sudden, according to Brown, “they are interrupted by an official with a suit and clip board. This official tells them that they cannot stay in the anteroom for security reasons, and the official then tells the girl in the polka dot dress to go to the kitchen.”

Official With Suit and Clipboard Sends Sirhan and Polkadot from an Anteroom by the Stage to the Kitchen

Sirhan to Dr. Daniel Brown: “All of a sudden they tell us, we have to move. This guy comes by wearing a suit ... darkish hair ... a big full face ... seems like he was in charge ... he wasn't wearing any uniform ... wearing a suit ... she acknowledges his instruction ... he motions towards the pantry. The man said, 'you guys can go back in this room.' I followed her. She led ... I was a little like a puppy after her. I wanted to go back to the mariachi band ... but she went straight to the pantry area ... with my being so attracted to her I was just glued to her."

Sirhan was clueless, possibly drugged. "She" and the "official" led him to the very place that the assassination was to occur.

RFK's victory speech was just long enough to get the kill-team surely in place

The patsy, Mr. Sirhan by the tray-stacker

The actual killer either waiting by the ramp leading down to the kitchen/pantry swinging door or waiting just inside

Security Guard's Statement to FBI

Stanley Kawalec was a security guard for the Ambassador Hotel Mr. Kawalec told the FBI that "his station was in a hallway which is located directly behind a small anteroom which, in turn, is located directly behind the stage in the Embassy Room"

on which stage RFK delivered his victory speech.

"Kawalec advise that as Senator Kennedy was completing his speech, he was ordered by the Chief Security Officer, Mr. William Gardner, to vacate the spot which he had directly behind the stage and assume a position in the Embassy kitchen area."

He was to control the crowd "and make a passageway for Senator Kennedy through a side door of the Embassy Room through the Embassy kitchen to the Colonial Room where the Senator was to have a press conference"

Kawalec placed himself at the end of a steam table facing the Senator when he heard shots

His Final Speech

After adjusting the microphones, and a fairly lengthy list of those he thanked for their help

Kennedy spoke for approximately ten minutes (well enough time to get the robo-team in place)

After congratulating pitcher Don Drysdale for his sixth straight no-hit shutout the winner of California's 178 delegates congratulated McCarthy

He pointed out that the "country wants to move in a different direction, we want to deal with our own problems within our country, and we want peace in Vietnam."

(great applause)

He was looking forward to "a dialogue, or a debate," with Humphrey
"on what direction we want to go in; what we are going to do in the rural areas of our country, what we are going to do with those who still suffer within the United States from hunger.... and whether we're going to continue the policies that have been so unsuccessful in Vietnam...."

Then he finished,
"We are a great country,

an unselfish country, a compassionate country and I intend to make that my basis for running..... so my thanks to all of you and now on to Chicago and let's win there."

The crowd chanted in a powerful rhythm
"We want Bobby, we want Bobby...."

parted the gold curtain and reached for Kennedy's arm to lead him back through the curtain off the platform's back

While a voice urged, "This way Mr. Kennedy"

This way Mr. Kennedy

Uecker turned Kennedy to his right after passing through the curtain, the Senator jumped down two feet onto the regular stage and through the anteroom (from which Sirhan and the girl in the polkadot dress had so recently been told to leave and go to the kitchen pantry) and then down an incline toward the double door which led to a service pantry and the kitchen

Fred Dutton and RFK's main security guy Bill Barry were caught off guard thinking the Senator was leaving the stage the way he entered, up the side steps

Uno Timanson was about 6 feet ahead of the Senator when he heard the pops.

He rushed to the outside of the hotel to wait for the ambulance. He brought the ambulance attendants to where RFK lay by the ice machine.

(Also escorting the winner was a security guard named Thane Eugene Cesar. It's not known if Cesar instructed Uecker to pull Kennedy back through the curtain and down the incline toward the swinging doors of the pantry)

It was hasty

"Slow down!" someone cried.
"You're getting ahead of everyone!"
The bodyguards were not yet caught up

Cues for Post-Hypnotic Suggestions, say, to Kill

Researcher/writer Martin Lee with whom I worked in 1978-'79 on research into hypno-robo issues located an article in the Journal of Personal & Social Psychology

    Vol. 9, #2, 1968

(by Martin Orne, Peter Sheehan, & Fred J. Evans of the University of Penn Hospital & University of Penn) that stated that once the post-hypnotic cue (to trigger a specific act) is established deeply then any person who gives the cue can evoke programmed responses.

Thus, even though Sirhan Sirhan had been programmed say by the man with the pencil-mustache

Polkadot could have delivered the cue to shoot.

Sirhan and the Woman on the Tray Holder

A man named named Thomas Vincent Di Pierro, son of a maitre d' at the Ambassador spoke of it to the FBI very soon after in the time of fresh memory:

"I observed a white male and a white female standing on a tray holder at the opposite end of the ice machine which is approximately 12-15 feet away.

"This white male turned toward the white female and appeared to converse with her very briefly. He then dismounted from the tray holder (and) went into the crowd and I did not observe him until shortly thereafter when I then saw him standing at the heating cabinet behind Mr. Karl Uecker, another hotel employee. I did not see this white female again after this time."

As we have suggested, maybe she had been whispering his final wire-up the code-phrase or code-word which would trigger the shooting

"As Senator Kennedy shook the hand of the hotel cook he then turned to his right in the direction of the heating cabinet and that time I saw the white male who was previously standing on the tray cabinet. I saw this individual reach his right arm around Mr. Uecker and in his hand he had a revolver which was pointed directly at Senator Kennedy's head....."

—Vincent Di Pierro to FBI 6-7-68

The woman with whom Sirhan talked on the tray table Di Pierro described: white female, 21 to 25, wearing a form-fitting scoop neck dress. "The dress appeared to have black or dark violet polka dots."

Polka Dot Dress

I think the historical record is clear that there was a woman in a polkadot dress who ran from the from one of the doors of the Embassy Room leading to the outside shouting something like, "We shot him! We killed him!"

(you can read more in William Turner's and John Christian's The Assassination of Robert F. Kennedy. Try around page 67)

As far back as two years after June '68 it was written,
"It turns out that six.... witnesses saw the girl in the polka dot dress with Sirhan before the shots and afterward."

Sirhan Claims He Thought He was Shooting at Targets at a Gun Range

Sirhan has recalled to Harvard's Dr. Brown that when he fired his .22 in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel kitchen he believed he was at a gun range and shooting at circular targets. Dr. Brown's statement, contained in an exhibit in a 2011 court case seeking a retrial of Sirhan Sirhan, stated: "Mr. Sirhan did not know and could not have known that Senator Kennedy was going to pass through the kitchen area. Mr. Sirhan was led to the kitchen area by a woman after that same woman had received directions from an official at the event. Mr. Sirhan did not go with the intent to shoot Senator Kennedy, but did respond to a specific hypnotic cue given to him by that woman to enter 'range mode,' during which Mr. Sirhan automatically and involuntarily responded with a 'flashback' that he was shooting at a firing range at circle targets. At the time Mr. Sirhan did not know that he was shooting at people nor did he know that he was shooting at Senator Kennedy."

Sirhan recounted: “I am trying to figure out how I’m going to have her ... All of a sudden she’s looking over my head toward an area ... Then she taps me or pinches me ... It is startling ... It was like when you’re stuck with a pin or pinched... a very sharp pinch... I thought she did it with her fingernails ... like a wake-up ... it snapped me out of my doldrums ... yet, I’m still sleepy ... She points back over my head ... She says, ‘Look, look, look.’ I turned around ... I don’t know what happened after that ... She spun me around and turned my body around ... She was directing my attention to the rear ... Way back... There are people coming back through the doors ... I am puzzled about what she is directing me to ... It didn’t seem relevant to me ... Some people started streaming in ... She kept motioning toward the back ... then all of a sudden she gets more animated ... She put her arm on my shoulder.

“I think she had her hand on me ... Then I was at the target range ... a flashback to the shooting range ... I didn’t know that I had a gun ... there was this target like a flashback to the target range ... I thought that I was at the range more than I was actually shooting at any person, let alone Bobby Kennedy.” Brown then asked Sirhan to recall his state of mind. “My mental state was like I was drunk and sleepy ... maybe the girl had something to do with it ...I was like at the range again ...” What did the targets look like? Dr. Brown asked. “Circles. Circles... It was like I was at the range again ...I think I shot one or two shots ... Then I snapped out of it and thought ‘I’m not at the range’ ...Then, ‘What is going on?’ Then they started grabbing me ... I’m thinking, ‘the range, the range, the range.’ Then everything gets blurry ...after that first or second shot ... that was the end of it ... It was the wrong place for the gun to be there ... I thought it was the range ... they broke my finger ...” Then Sirhan was asked, What happens next? Sirhan: “Next thing I remember I was being choked and man-handled, I didn’t know what was going on. I didn’t realize until they got me in a car... later when I saw the female judge I knew that Bobby Kennedy was shot and I was the shooter, but it doesn’t come into my memory.”

Yes, As He Fired at RFK Sirhan Thought He was Shooting at Circle Targets at a Firing Range

Sirhan Sirhan “thought he was firing at stationary circle targets at a firing range. he did not know he was firing at Senator Kennedy at the time of the assassination.”

—p. 14 Exhibit H “Declaration of Dr. Daniel Brown.”

“On the night of the assassination, all that was required was for (Sirhan Sirhan) to show up at a designated place induced by post-hypnotic suggestion, be led to the site by a handler, and then adopt 'rang mode' upon cue."

—p. 15 Exhibit H "Declaration of Dr. Daniel Brown."

Reporter Jules Witcover

The writer Jules Witcover covered the Kennedy campaign (and later wrote a book on it, 85 Days— The Last Campaign of Robert Kennedy)

Kennedy was only about 30 feet from his destination— the Colonial Room to talk with the press

"Members of the kitchen staff lined his path to see him or shake his hand."

Witcover wrote that Karl Uecker was guiding the Candidate
He does not mention security guard Thane Cesar

At 12:13 a.m. a Mutual radio reporter named Andy West tape recorder running asked Kennedy how he could overcome Humphrey's delegate count Kennedy started to answer, "It just goes back to the struggle for it..."

Witcover: "Then suddenly the young man stepped down from the tray-stacker, raised his right hand high over the surrounding aides and fired a snub-nosed revolver at Kennedy's head at close range, probably not more than a few feet"

—Witcover, 85 Days, p. 266

78 people were in the pantry when RFK

—p. 7 Melanson/ Wm Klaber, Shadow Play

There was a young woman named Lisa Urso a high school student in San Diego who was standing by the door of the pantry

as RFK entered the pantry

Suddenly she was shoved from behind and a young man pushed in front of her “I thought it was going to be a waiter and it looked like he was trying to get in there & shake the Senator’s hand.”

It was Sirhan Sirhan. She saw a flash from the gun.

Then watched Paul Schrade, and also RFK fall to the floor

—p. 8 Philip Melanson/ William Klaber, Shadow Play

The Ice Machine Room

There was a sign,
THE ONCE AND FUTURE KING
taped to the wall

near where Kennedy stopped by the ice machine to greet those lined and clustered there.

The guard named Thane Eugene Cesar who was helping lead the Candidate toward the kitchen had worked a full day at Lockheed as a maintenance plumber then went home (to Simi) where he received a call from Ace Guard Service (where he worked part time) to go to the Ambassador for guard duty that night.

Cesar has assigned to escort Kennedy thought he heard Sirhan snarl.

(Though, maybe it was not Sirhan Sirhan's snarl but the second shooter the actual hit-man or perhaps someone else
 —a part of the kill-group)

—p. 8 Melanson/Klaber, Shadow Play

There were shots
 Witnesses gave differing accounts of the number.
 There was an initial quick popping sound then a rapid series pop-pop-pop-pop-pop-pop-pop pop-pop-pop

(the total number of pops is a matter of discussion but more than the 8 in the Iver-Johnson)

But were there brilliant lights?
 Accounts say that the TV and photo lights were off in the crush of the entrance to the kitchen

Cesar, or someone, could have fired in the madness of the crush his pistol right up against or an inch or two away from the head by the ear

(I've read recently that Mr. Cesar currently resides in the Philippines. One writer later gave him a polygraph test, and has said that he passed it.

According to Los Angeles Coroner Thomas Noguchi who did the autopsy on Robert Kennedy

all three bullets which struck Kennedy entered from the rear, in a bullet-path from down to up, right to left. "Moreover," he noted, powder burns around the entry wound indicated that the fatal bullet was fired at less than one inch from the head and no more than two or

The Pruszyński Tape showing Extra Shots

A Polish reporter named Stanislaw Pruszyński was covering the primary victory that night for the Montreal Gazette

He happened to have his tape recorder running during the shooting.

He later gave the tape to the California State Archives where it resided unexamined for a number of decades

The recording was not long ago re-examined and digitally remastered; and forensic examiners contend that at least 14 shots were fired in the kitchen pantry during that burst of pop-pop-pop’s

(see book, An Open and Shut Case, by forensic scientist Robert Joling and Philip Van Praag)

Another Gun

“One witness asserts a man in a suit fired a weapon”

—Chapter 6, p. 71 The Robert F. Kennedy Assassination, New Revelations on the Conspiracy and Cover-Up Philip Melanson, Ph.D.

Melanson “found two witnesses who saw another gun in the pantry” (which was “not recorded by official investigators”

Lisa Urso saw another person (not Sirhan, and not wearing a uniform), with a gun in hand. He was blond with gray suit

“Martha Raines” (Melanson protected her name)

saw a guy with dark wavy hair in a grey suit shoot his gun (once or twice” and run out of pantry. He was seen with Sirhan earlier in the evening.

p. 65

Kennedy supporter Dr. Marcus McBroom, PhD, was at the Ambassador, arriving about 10:30.

He entered the Embassy room via the kitchen
The FBI report on an interview with McBroom, dated 7-11-68, states: “While he was going through the kitchen... he observed Sirhan sitting on a table in the kitchen.”

He joined the celebration in the Embassy Room & was invited by Jean Smith to join the “private after-party” (apparently meaning at the discotheque, The Factory)

After the speech, he followed RFK and supporters through the swinging door into the pantry

“Just as he entered the door, he heard what he assumed later to be the first of several gun shots fired....”

Then he saw Roosevelt Grier and others trying to dislodge the .22 from Sirhan’s hand

McBroom then raced thence to try to locate a doctor “While running into the Embassy Room, he stated he remembers seeing a caucasian female about twenty-five, 5’4”, 126 pounds, moving toward the exit. This woman was wearing a white dress with black polka dots.....
The only unusual thing he noticed about this woman was the fact that she appeared much calmer than anyone else in the room, and appeared to be trying to leave the room as soon as possible.”

As McBroom raced from the pantry to locate a doctor, he saw another man hastening away from the scene in a furtive way

—four-page FBI interview, dated 6-11-68 in author’s possession

”I looked, and then the second shot, I saw smoke and saw like something from a— like a— the residue from a bullet or cap, looked like a cap gun throwing off residue.”

—Olympic Decathlon champion Rafer Johnson to LAPD, 6-5-68

After all, the kill team didn’t want Sirhan, firing wildly hitting the actual killer

Wresting the Gun from Sirhan’s Grasp

Bill Barry, RFK’s main guard, had rushed to the pantry. He told the FBI a few hours later:

“I took the gun away from him and put the gun on the counter.”

Sirhan then somehow re-grabbed the gun and several on hand subdued him and seized the weapon.

Rafer Johnson took the gun, bringing it home with him, where he wrote the gun number in his diary.

Around two hours after the shooting, Johnson brought the revolver to the police, handing it to Sgt. Michael McCann of LAPD-Homicide, in the presence of Sgt. R.L. Calkins.

The tape recording of the hand-over:

McCann: We have an Iver—

Calkins: Iver-Johnson—

McCann: Iver-Johnson Cadet, model 55-A Calkins: More of these goddamn guns kill more people—

McCann: Model number 50— number 56-SA. The serial number is H53725

As Lisa Pease points out, “The gun in evidence today is an Iver-Johnson Cadet, Model

“Iver Johnson Model 56-A (as indicated by Sgt. McCann reading it apparently from the revolver handed over by Rafer Johnson), however, is a starter gun that fires blank cartridges.”

—Lisa Pease, pp. 566-68, “The RFK Plot Part 1: The Grand Illusion,” in The Assassinations

Juan Romero Kneels by Robert Kennedy

Working in the kitchen and pantry was young Juan Romero who wanted to shake Kennedy’s hand (as he had the night he’d delivered a cart of food to Kennedy’s room) and pressed through the packed pantry.

Just as Kennedy clasped his hand there was a flash of heat & suddenly RFK was on the floor

“He was looking up at the ceiling,” Romero later recalled “and I thought he’d banged his head.
I asked, ‘Are you Ok. Can you get up?’
One eye, his left eye, was twitching, & one leg was shaking’

Romero slid his hand under the back of Kennedy’s head to try to raise him & felt blood trickling through his fingers.

Ethel had rushed to the scene & then pushed Juan away He asked if he could give Bobby his rosary beads

“I pressed them into his hand but they wouldn’t stay... so I tried wrapping them around his thumb.

56

When they were wheeling him away, I saw the rosary beads still hanging off his hand.”

Another Version

The Senator was on his back Juan Romero knelt down beside him He urged, “Come on, Mr. Kennedy, you can make it”

A fellow kitchen worker, Daniel Curtin handed Romero his own rosary beads Romero wrapped them in Kennedy’s left hand.

“Is everybody all right,” RFK asked in a barely hearable voice

Stanley Abo was a L.A. radiologist
He placed his ear next to the victim’s chest
The breathing was very shallow He took his pulse, then stuck a finger into RFK’s head wound “to relieve the” built-up “pressure”

The wound bled gravely.

“You’re doing good” Abo told the Senator

“The ambulance is on the way.”

Ethel arrived, and tried to make space then tended to her husband who was aware of her presence

“O Ethel, Ethel”
said the man who would have been President, softly

pp. 9-10 Shadow Play, Melanson/Klaber

Glancing at His Watch

The writer Pete Hamill, who’d written the January letter urging RFK to run it was 12:15 AM

Meanwhile, the video of events in the ballroom showed that just about 2 and 1/2 minutes after RFK left the podium
the ballroom was still packed when suddenly there were screams, shouts & consternation in the audience

The podium was still over-crowded The microphones were still on and a minute later a voice is heard:
“What happened, do you know?”
Second voice: “Somebody said he’d been shot.”

A few seconds later a young man speaks into the mike:
“Please stay back. Please stay back....
“If there’s a doctor, come right here.
From a young man at the other microphone:
“Would a doctor come right here?!”
First microphone: “We need a doctor right here at the microphone, immediately!”

Then, a few seconds after that a man with a Kennedy accent took the mike: “Quiet please. Quiet please
The best thing everybody can do here is in an orderly way leave.” (makes a sweeping gesture with his arm)

Would you please do that.
Just in an orderly way clear the room.”

Soon he said “We don’t know what’s happened but all of this noise and confusion is not going to help.
Please clear the room.”

Can we in an orderly way clear the room, please.”

“Would you move out quickly.”

“Would you please clear the room in an orderly fashion?"

This was followed, a little more than six minutes after RFK left the stage with "We've got a doctor now Would you please clear the room and offer your prayer."

Dr. Stanley Abo, summoned from the crowd, found RFK holding a cross & beads

"Ethel... Ethel
It's all right
It's ok," RFK said,
his body contorting

(or, it may have been, "is everyone all right?")

(Sandra Serrano, shortly after the woman in the polkadot dress ran outside, went on the air with NBC reporter Sander Vanocur:

"The girl came running down the stairs in the back, came running down the stairs and said
'We shot him. We shot him.' and I said
'Who did you shoot?' and she said
                                'We shot Senator Kennedy'.....
She was Caucasian. She had on a white dress with polka dots.
She was light-skinned, dark hair. She had on black shoes, and she had a funny nose."

—pp. 14-15, Shadow Play, Melanson/Klaber

Vincent DiPierro recalled the woman in the polkadot dress as having a peculiar "pudgy" nose

—p. 14, Shadow Play, Melanson/Klaber

A Police Officer Arrives

A block from the Ambassador LAPD Sergeant Paul Scharaga had stopped to purchase cigarettes

Getting back into the patrol car he heard a radio call about a shooting at 3400 Wilshire which he recognized as the Ambassador

He sped to the rear of the hotel. In the parking lot he found a couple who very very upset: The woman was in her mid/late 50s led in the conversation: she said they had been located near the exit stairs when a young woman and young man ran past “shouting gleefully” “We shot him! We shot him!”

The young woman was wearing a polka-dot dress.

“Senator Kennedy,” replied she in the polka-dot, “We shot him!
We killed him!”

The young man and woman, “laughing,” then disappeared out of sight in the lot

—p. 10 Shadow Play, Klaber/Melanson

Footage Showing David Morales Emerging from the Pantry where RFK had been Shot

On page 454 of Who Killed Bobby? author Shane O’Sullivan noted that,
“At 12:47, ‘Morales’ emerged from the pantry (where RFK had been shot at 12:15) and walked into the ballroom among a group of police officers.

“At 1:03, ‘Morales’ is observed comparing notes with someone who looks like a plainclothes detective, though, according to the LAPD, no police were present at the time RFK was shot.

“If Joannides, Campbell and Morales were Bulova executives, they did not act as if they were Bulova executives.”

60

Recall that Rabern told Shane he had also observed the man others identified as Campbell in and around the LAPD “probably half a dozen times” as Shane reports in Who Killed Bobby?[10] (page 441).

Sirhan Taken Out of the Pantry

Two LAPD patrolmen (Travis White and Arthur Placencia) arrived at the shooting scene

Sirhan was pinned to a table

Another police officer Randolph Adair also had rushed to the scene

Sirhan, he noticed, “had a blank, glassed-over look on his face —like he wasn’t in complete control of his mind at the time.”
(see Moldea book, pp. 47-48)

The policemen began to pry Sirhan free from the grasp of those holding him down

Jesse Unruh was one of those holding Sirhan in his grasp and accompanied the officers after they handcuffed Sirhan and brought him down through a hostile crowd to the squad car

Unruh jumped into the front seat while angry citizens pounded on the car they switched on the siren and pulled away with Officer Placencia read Sirhan his rights Sirhan refusing to give his name

Who are you, Placencia asked Unruh
I’m Jessie Unruh

Who did he shoot? asked the officer Bobby Kennedy, replied Unruh.

Medical Attendants Arrive

Two men in uniforms “like police officers” arrived each with a shoulder patch that read “medical attendant” to drive Robert Kennedy to the Central Receiving Hospital

They placed a blanket under him and began to put him upon a stretcher

“No, please don’t. Don’t lift me up,” said Robert Kennedy

The two attendants “heaved” him onto the stretcher & then “they bumped and banged their way.... to the elevator”

Pete Hamill looked at his watch again— it was 12:32
It had taken 17 minutes to get Kennedy toward the hospital

He also glanced at the floor.
So much blood where his upper body had lain.
Could he survive?

(see Robert Blair Kaiser’s book RFK Must Die (pp. 34-35))

Good Samaritan Hospital

The emergency doctors at Central Receiving restored his breathing then soon transferred him to Good Samaritan Hospital where the great Senator lingered in life through the next day and into the next night

Los Angeles Coroner Thomas Noguchi prepared a team to perform the autopsy

“At 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday (June 5),” Noguchi later stated, “the hospital informed us that the Senator had a flat electroencephalogram, so we knew the end was near.”

RFK left life at 1:44 a.m. on Thursday, June 6 and then at 3 a.m. Noguchi began the autopsy

For some reason three military pathologists were flown in from D.C. to witness it. Why?

The Fatal Bullet Fired from Two or Three Inches Away

One key finding of Noguchi’s investigation:
three inches behind the right ear.”

CIA Counterintelligence Chief James Angleton & FBI head J. Edgar Hoover both kept photographs of RFK’s autopsy in their private files

(Shane O’Sullivan, p. 424, Who Killed Bobby)

A Goal: Keep the Bullet Count Down

They needed to keep the bullet count down to no more than could have been fired by Sirhan Sirhan i.e., eight

So, they had to deprecate, denigrate and erase all assertions that there were bullets found in the center post of the double doors leading into the killing zone

FBI Agent William Bailey on the Bullet Holes in the Center Post

Retired FBI officer William Bailey told Vincent Bugliosi in 1975 that he “had worked at the RFK crime scene and definitely saw what appeared to be bullets lodged in the door frame.

At least two holes in the center post, he later said.

Bailey later said, “I looked into these holes... They were definitely not nail holes. There appeared to be objects inside.”

Uecker and the Holes

Karl Uecker returned to the crime scene the morning of June 5, 1968, and noticed two holes, not seen previously, in the center post.

Bullets in Sirhan’s DeSoto

The police found two spent bullet tips in the glove compartment with wood frags on them. Melanson wonders if they weren’t the two dug out of the pantry door frame, and placed, as a deceit, into the DeSoto.

Imbalance on the Edge

After RFK was murdered his closest friends seemed close to insanity the grief was like a primitive stack of boulders on the soul (The great singer Rosemary Clooney suffered a breakdown because of the evil)

The View from Avenue A

Miriam and I watched the returns in our apartment on 12th Avenue A just up the street from the Peace Eye Bookstore

I was weeping and wondering what to do on such a violent planet and gory nation

40 years later the wondering continues but the weeping has grown into long-term anguish commingled with anger.

The Feather of Justice

Is there no Justice Is there no Ancient Feather of Justice who can sweep the shards of truth into a pattern of Revelation?

Oh Justice! please grant us Knowledge Please reveal to us the true facts which eternity has painted on Clio's Scrolls!

and pending that granting please, o Justice, help us in our archaeology.

Here's what I believe occurred by the Ice Machine

I believe that Robert Kennedy was assassinated
by U.S. Clandestine Intelligence Agencies probably by the CIA

& that Sirhan was robowashed by CIA doctors and hypno-warriors who may have also worked on James Earl Ray in L.A.

That's what I believe in America where you can still believe without handcuffs and where the guns of the lone nuts

65

“The pages of history are written in gore,” I once read—

Not all of them of course but certainly all the pages by the Ice Machine

They wounded the nation in countless ways wounded her history the rest of her days

They wounded the future Like Lincoln ammort Roosevelt at 220/130 & the A-bomb’s retort

Tell me again why the guns
with gun powder ballots & voting with knife-heft never for peace always for strife empire & war

a dollar a life

O Robert Kennedy in the Time-Torrent tossed O Robert Kennedy by the Ice Machine lost Alone we weep in the cistern of the Muses Alone, as the philosopher said, with no excuses
